Military Interpreter

PRIMARY PURPOSE OF POSITION

In support of Fort Ticonderoga's commitment to preserve and educate, Military Interpreters engage visitors with musket demonstrations, cannon demonstrations, and interpretive living history programming about the daily life of the soldiers who served at Fort Ticonderoga. Military Interpreters are full-time seasonal interpreters who present the daily life of the many peoples in the various armies of the Seven Years War and American Revolution, as they relate to the history of Fort Ticonderoga. They use and learn the practical and functional aspects of 18th-century material culture as recreated for visitors. Military Interpreters have many opportunities for creativity and learning while educating visitors at Fort Ticonderoga. These historically-clothed interpreters are the public face and voice to visitors at this historic site and act with corresponding respect and professionalism. Military Interpreters are vigilant sentinels of site stewardship and visitor safety while educating a wide variety of visitors through interpretive programming.
